CRASH OBSERVATIONS, PARTICIPATIONS, OCCUPANT & VEHICLE EXAMINATION

From 2000 to 2006, participated in live crash analysis as an observer, research assistant, and forensic examiner in 75 vehicle impacts at high and low speeds. Crash vehicles, RID dummies, and live human subjects (male and female) were instrumented for velocity measurements and force calculations. Crash tests were recorded by high speed film and video at speeds up to 500 frames per second. Participation in crash studies consisted of pre and post-crash examination of occupants and vehicles. Crash tests included linear rear-end impacts, offset and angled rear-end impacts, broad-side impacts, side-swipe impacts, and high speed head-on/frontal impacts with airbag deployment. Low speed crashes involved inspection of the vehicles for property damage including measurement analyses of bumper isolator compression. Crash testing also included pedestrian collisions. All data were collected following the general theory of SAE (Society of Automotive Engineers).
